

Visual explanation of my JSON Structure....

Each app has one top level object that needs to be loaded (this is given by the id tag, it tells us that everything between the next set of brackets {} defines information needed to contract a Register object...

followed are exploded bracketed lists of all the info that a register object really holds (breaks the structure down class by class and lists the variable name and then the value that it must be set to)

VISUAL

